

International Bar Association Annual Conference

10.30.2011

The International Bar Association Annual Conference will feature a wide array of substantive sessions, workshops and panels, addressing issues ranging from arbitration to M&A law, from human rights to the ethics of the legal profession. Michael Pfeifer from Caplin & Drysdale is participating in the following panel: Date: November 2, 2011

Panel Title:

Tax Compliance: Will It Ever Go Away?

Panel Description:

International private clients and their advisers are facing increasingly complex compliance and transparency rules. These rules have an impact on the cross-border wealth planning and the administration of assets. The panelists will examine new developments in compliance issues including the U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act, the impact of transparency regulations such as the EU initiative to strengthen administrative cooperation in the field of taxation, etc.

Related Practices/Industries

Private Client